CEU: Nomadic Work Designing for the New Work Day

The explosion of access to mobile technology has brought about a seachange in where work gets done. Today work is crossing over into homes, cafes, airports, hotels and places in between. Through our research we observed how the freedom of mobile working has led people to seek out places that provide support for their mobile tools, as well as for their physical and emotional comfort. This has placed new expectations and demands on the workplace. Our research uncovers insights and opportunities for designers to address the challenges posed by the new work day.

Participants will receive CEU credit:

- 1 AIA Learning Unit
- .1 IDCEC Continuing Education Unit (CEU) for ASID, IDC and IIDA
