"Toward a More Creative Life"
By Pamela Rainey

All designers find themselves, from time to time, lacking inspiration for creativity. And everyone has ways to get themselves out of such ruts. Just ask them. When Pamela Rainey did, she learned that there are common threads running through the myriad of ways we find paths back to more creative states of mind. What if we could weave such techniques through the fabric of our daily lives? Like healthy lifestyles in which we eat, sleep and exercise well, what if we could fortify our creative diets with daily doses of inspiration nutrition? We'd be moving toward more creative lives.
