

Small Actions Add Up: Make a Big Impact with Cardinal Green Buildings

Sustainable Stanford Training Webinar: October 29, 10:30am

By Lauren Hennessy

Sustainability is a way of life here at Stanford, and as building managers, you can have a significant influence on the environmental impact of our daily operations. Office of Sustainability (OOS), in partnership with Building & Grounds Maintenance, invites you to participate in a webinar to learn about some of the targeted approaches to saving energy this year through its Cardinal Green Buildings campaign. The campaign also includes details about Winter Closure.

This year, in an effort to streamline the program, OOS will work with specific buildings and engage occupants in some new offerings, including a 'space heater swap' and an equipment timer program. Each year, the Cardinal Green Buildings Campaign results in an average of $350,000 in avoided energy costs – which represents 1.5 million kilowatt-hours of electricity or 840 metric tons of CO<sub>2</sub> emissions. Learn about simple ways that you can have a big impact while earning cash prizes for participation, along with important details and deadlines. In the coming weeks, all building managers will receive a calendar invitation with instructions for accessing the webinar. Thank you for your ongoing support and good stewardship of Stanford's campus.
