ANNUAL NC CATCH SUMMIT:

March 7-8, 2016
NC Maritime Museum in Beaufort, NC

FROM JERRY:

Just a few words this week to let you know about the efforts of NCFA on a number of issues:

I'll be in Raleigh for a legislative committee meeting on Wednesday, then head to Wrightsville Beach for the Marine Fisheries Commission till Friday.

David will be at the MFC meeting as well, but he'll also be calling on some members and prospective members while he's there.

Today I've been on the phone discussing yet another violation of the Open Meetings Law by the Marine Fisheries Commission. I know there are many who are wondering what NCFA is doing about it. Well, I can't put it in the Weekly Update, but be assured we are addressing the issue!

I've also been working on a response to an article that appeared in the Kinston Free Press and responses to letters to the editor in other papers.

This is one of those times when one becomes very reflective about fisheries specifically and life in general. There have been three deaths over the past couple of weeks: Faith Daniels Miller in the north, Mitchell Newman near the mid coast and Jim Bahen from the southern coast. Faith was younger than me, and Mitchell and Bahen a bit older, but not by much. All were tied to commercial fishing in some way. Jim Bahen was NC State Sea Grant, but he worked very closely with commercial fishermen before he retired. All were good people that brought a smile to your face when thinking about them.

God bless,

Jerry

SOUTHERN SHRIMP ALLIANCE & SHRIMP IMPORTS:

The Southern Shrimp Alliance (SSA) is an organization of shrimp fishermen, shrimp processors, and other members of the domestic industry in the eight warmwater shrimp producing states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Texas. Founded in 2002, the SSA works to ensure the continued vitality and existence of the U.S. shrimp industry. The livelihoods of U.S. shrimpers are threatened by cheap, unfairly traded imported shrimp. The U.S market has become a dumping ground for shrimp that are turned away from other major seafood importing countries. Proposed restrictions on shrimp fishing and rapidly increasing costs of doing business also loom over the industry. The SSA is committed to preserving the long term viability of one of our nation's most valuable fisheries, which for decades has been a foundation of the economy and social structure of countless coastal communities throughout the Gulf and Southeast regions.

SSA is currently conducting a sunset review, which is required to determine if antidumping duties should remain for imported shrimp from certain countries. John distributed surveys for shrimpers and processors. It is very important for shrimpers and shrimp processors to participate in this survey! If not, the antidumping duties could be lifted.

We have copies at the office, so call if you want us to send you one or more. Or you can contact John Williams of the Southern Shrimp Alliance directly: john@shrimpalliance.com or call: 727-934-5090.

IF YOU ARE INVOLVED IN THE DOMESTIC SHRIMP INDUSTRY AND CONCERNED ABOUT IMPORTS, YOU NEED TO PARTICIPATE IN THIS SURVEY!!!

PROPOSED BOUNDARY EXPANSION TO MONITOR NATIONAL MARINE SANCTUARY:

After several years of scientific and archaeological assessment and in coordination with the public, NOAA is proposing to expand Monitor National Marine Sanctuary off North Carolina's Outer Banks to include additional maritime heritage resources. The proposed expansion would protect a nationally significant collection of shipwrecks that currently have little or no legal protection, including one of America's only World War II battlefields.
