What a beautiful stretch of sunny 60 degree days we have been able to enjoy, perfect weather for knitting and a whole lot more. Good for sleeping too! Speaking of autumn, Susan redid our flowers just before the festival and they are looking mighty nice. I knit a pumpkin hat for Cal, it's right there in the picture on the birch log...but now it's in Chicagoland as Cal & Nolan are going to a pumpkin patch this weekend and mom is going to send me a cute pic of Cal with it on.

As you can see I finished and then wore the Two Harbor's poncho from Blue Sky, knit with Extra, to an apple orchard on Saturday, it was a perfect day to have it on. This is an easy and fun pattern to knit and also easy to adjust so that you can get a perfect fit just for yourself.

I also just finished another giant afghan...it took me just seven hours and I started Cat's Christmas stocking. I'm trying to make up for all that lost knitting time in August. Have a good week!

Paula, used two skeins of extra to knit this shoulder cozy that can also be worn as a cowl. Just enough to keep you warm in a chilly office or restaurant. Pattern is in the latest issue of Vogue and we ordered extra issues to have on hand for you.

Newest Yarns... my favorite yarn Madelinetosh finally arrived in dk weight...
 what a beautiful array of color...
 ...and this is a new yarn to the shop called Spatterdash...a light worsted yarn, with 220 yards of a very soft superwash merino wool...with a tweed look.

And Diane brought in some more of her necklace and bracelet kits.

“Show & Tell”

Thank you for letting me take pictures of your finished projects each week...your willingness to share inspires others!

Sunday afternoon Cheryl P. finished her second Chevron cowl using mini skeins of Bah merino wool...while Tuesday morning Leslie, completed the same pattern but chose to leave it as a scarf and used just one color way, Madelintosh Pashmina. Free pattern at the shop.

Monday morning Kathy B., knit two of our quick to knit afghans for her two young grandsons to cuddle up with while watching television...a free pattern at the shop with purchase of yarn.

Laurie, took the Christmas stocking class last year and sent in this photo of her finished work... as you can see, she personalized each stocking for her grandchildren.

And Tuesday morning Karen has been on a roll lately as she just finished two more projects, both are gifts. A market bag for a friend and slipper socks for her husband...yarn and patterns are available at the shop.
