

Ecumenical Theological Seminary Student and Community Workshop

Friday, December 11th from 4PM-7PM
and
Saturday, December 12th from 9:30AM-4PM

Register at <http://bit.ly/December2015Workshop>

Presenter: Mr. Brandon Grafius

Ph.D. Candidate, Hebrew Bible
Chicago Theological Seminary
Director of the Urban Ministry Program and Adjunct Faculty
Ecumenical Theological Seminary

"The Old Testament and Violence"

WS315 Course Description:

The violent acts portrayed in the Old Testament, perpetrated by both humans and by God, have long troubled pastors, scholars, and lay people alike. In this course we will examine some of these passages, look at various scholarly proposals for treating them, and work to provide a range of hermeneutical models to help us live out our dual commitments to both the authority of Scripture and an ethical model of social justice.

This workshop is OPEN TO THE PUBLIC.

Costs:

Students- $150
Community- $250

Workshop will be held at
Ecumenical Theological Seminary
2930 Woodward Avenue
Detroit, Michigan 48201
www.etseminary.edu
313.831.5200

Community: This is an outstanding Continuing Education opportunity for many members. Also, for those who have mandated professional Continuing Education Units (CEU's) to complete, please check with your professional organizations to see if these workshops can be used to fulfill those requirements.

Current Student Graduation Requirements:

UMD and MAPM must attend two ten-hour Workshops
MDiv must attend three ten-hour Workshops

Ecumenical Theological Seminary is accredited by the Commission on Accrediting of the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada, and the following degree programs are approved: MDiv, MA in Pastoral Ministry, Dmin.