Anthony David:
An Improbable Friendship:
The Remarkable Lives of Israeli Ruth Dayan and Palestinian Raymonda Tawil and Their 40-Year Mission to Build Understanding
Between Their Peoples

Thursday, November 12, 2015 • 8 p.m.

One woman became the mother-in-law of Israel's most notorious enemy.

The other was married to Israel's top military leader.

The two women met soon after the Six-Day War and, incredibly enough, became close friends.

An Improbable Friendship is the dual biography of Ruth Dayan, widow of Moshe Dayan, and Raymonda Tawil, Yasser Arafat's mother-in-law.

With research including in-depth interviews and access to private journals, award-winning biographer Anthony David delivers a fast-paced, fascinating and revealing narrative that tells the story of Ruth Dayan, who lives in Tel Aviv, and Raymonda Tawil, of Malta. It is a story of reconciliation and hope.
