WAY MORE ISRAEL: HERITAGE HOUSE & AISH HATORAH

Hello folks! [Way More Israel Trip @ Heritage House]

In the interest of trying to keep the students on the program interested.... I wanted to I introduce a very smart, friendly and attentive rabbi, whom I've known for about a year. This is Rabbi Ettlinger (his email had been include in the conversation).

He Has taught over 200 classes here at Aish, Machon Schlomo, Neve and other groups.

He teaches business ethics for all levels. The objective of his class is self discovery as he guides the students through every day scenarios. The classes are very interactive. He's a great listener as well! He's personally taught me and I've gotten a lot out of it.

I already asked max and he said he was interested. Joseph is a fiancé major! As well as Courtney. But anyone with any background can identify with what this Rabbi has to teach.

Adam

It's not often I get to be instrumental in helping spread the word of a favored Rabbi of mine, around. I'm really glad it worked out, I think with the class you taught you win the organization wins and the students win.

Adam Hulkower

One of our girls would actually like to learn more since she is studying to be an accountant.

Would you be willing to meet her - maybe with a few others?

Hello Rabbi I hope you had an ammmaaaazzziinnnggggg Shabbos!

1st one of the Guys from the Way More Israel trip came back to aish! at least for 4 months!!!!

2nd, did you have an opportunity to look at any of the conversations I sent you?

Best

Shalom Rabbi Ettlinger,

Thank you for your email. We enjoyed having you, your class was liked by the students.

We currently don't have any programs running. However closer to the Summer or in the Summer we hope to and we would then very much like to be in touch and have you give a class.

Thanks a lot,
Matan Weisberg

Actually we also organize an English Shabbos Shiur .... on Shabbos afternoon.
Would it interest you ... to walk in and give the shiur?

WAY MORE ISRAEL

Hi,

I am doing great. I found about about some Jewish classes in Toronto. I will see if they can connect me to other Jewish studied.

Rebecca Khodak

OLNEY MD

Shalom Reb Yosef,

I was in the classes that you gave in Ner Leelef on using the chosen mishpat curriculum for beginners. I am now in an out of town kollel and having experienced the class, would like to suggest using it in a learning program. The class you gave was the story about the babysitter falling asleep and the kids trashing the house. Would you be able to send me the class materials? (I gave my copy of the handout to someone running a young professionals program in Boston).

Thank you very much.

Chanoch Y. Kogos

Shalom Reb Yosef

This Wednesday our kollel (in Olney Maryland) will be starting a Beis Medrash program in Northern Virginia. A few Avreichim will offer different learning opportunities to the attendants. I am very excited about this as I have been asked to try the Choshen Mishpat curriculum. Would you have time to discuss how to approach this and how to use the materials?

(You sent me "The case of the baffled babysitter" prepared for a Bais Yaakov class. Is it presented the same way to the less affiliated?)

Please let me know when we can be in touch.

Chanoch Y. Kogos

Olney Maryland

Shalom Reb Yosef,

The shiurim are going really well Baruch Hashem. People are enjoying it, are stimulated and interested. We have been using the format of me telling the story, guiding the discussion of what people think is right and wrong, I present the halachos, and go through the application. Many of the attendees don't read/understand hebrew well enough to follow the sources, and I think they enjoy the group discussion format because it is inclusive. As the group gets used to learning together they have gotten more comfortable sharing their opinions in public, which makes for much better discussion and argument.

Attached is a picture of the shiur.

This past week we started the Tortious interference unit.

After the class one of the regular participants, Adam, asked me about a situation he is involved in. He works for an IT company (owned by a jew). He has a friend, Meir, who is an IT tech and currently working for a company owned by a frum guy. In discussion Meir revealed he has interviewed with other companies. (Not right now, but has in the not distant past) Apparently the IT world is pretty transient. If Adam refers Meir to his company and they hire Meir, Adam gets a $6000 referral bonus. What is Adam allowed to do to convince Meir to come work for his company?

In Action: Making A Kiddush HaShem

Do you have time for a phone call to clarify some of the halachos?

Many thanks for such great tools you allow me to use!

Chanoch Kogos

You have my continued appreciation for providing me with such great materials so well prepared!

One funny outcome of giving all these classes on money law is that people have started to ask me questions about other money situations. I guess if I am the guy giving the halacha on money that makes me the one to ask right? (I definitely know more than I did a few months ago, but its a looooooong way from Dayan Kogos haha)

BLOOMINGTON, IN

Hi Rabbi,

Could you please send me a few more discussion topics. The guys love them. The best response has been from ones that have solid halacha coming out in the end.

Thank you!

WISDOM TRIBE

I love your material! ... I am now playing the game of gaining the trust and contacts of a wide network of secular Israeli business people.

In Action: Making A Kiddush HaShem

I would eventually like to develop the materials, seminar, etc to open a "workplace ethics" conversation with this crowd based on Torah wisdom. ...

I'd like to call it

Mensch: A Workplace Instructive

I would probably start marketing it to companies in Silicon Valley before Tel Aviv. But we'll get there :-)

Shalom Rabbi Ettlinger,

I have a wonderful family from Tel Aviv coming for Shabbos. This is a 'secular' colleague of mine, who is very savvy and connected in the TLV business world- and open minded to Torah. I would love to present him with a juicy piece of workplace ethics at the table, could you send me a piece that you think would strike a chord? In effect, this would be a sounding board for the material and he can be very instrumental in setting up a platform to advance this discussion.

Thx!

I just arrived back in the country yesterday. Hoping we will be able to make a TLV event happen in the coming weeks, but need to check back in with the team.

Would love to hear more about gambling and ownership intellect vis a vie emotion. Please send me something if you have anything written

As a brief aside Re: gambling, is playing the stock market really any different? Especially the abstract computer driven trading that isn't really based on a companies performance but rather market trends.

ATLANTIC SEABOARD NCSY

Hi Yosef,

I was reading a post from Ner Le'Elef about Project Fellow and was interested to learn more about project.

I currently am the NCSY city director of Greater Washington and run programming in public schools during lunch called "Law and Order" where we turn the room into a court case- it's a very popular program! I was looking for more cases, but more importantly, sources to explain the positions.

Perhaps we can be in touch further to see if you'd be interested to help me out a bit on the front lines with sources for court cases and the ruling in Choshen Mishpat in certain cases.

Let me know if you're interested to discuss further and if you think you'd be able to help.

Thanks,

TORONTO

Rabbi Ettlinger,

I am going to Toronto next week and am giving a shiur. I'd like to give it on a topic which is either Business ethics OR pikuach nefesh and it has to be 45min. total.

Do you have any ready to go shiurim of that length? -the style: being a Shaila to put out to the crowd and then sources to deal with it.

Hi Rabbi - I just took a look at Project Fellow and I am extremely impressed! I wish I had looked into this earlier - the material is great, clear, and exactly what I am looking for regarding the "mentorship" program I just launched. The mentorship program includes 30-45 minutes of learning bi-weekly and I am wondering if I have permission to distribute your material to my mentors to use? I would give proper acknowledgement to Project Fellow whenever that material is being used.

I have already signed up for the weekly email. Is there a website where there is an archive of all of the material you have put together so far? I have found a few of the files through the Ner LeElef website and cannot seem to find your official site. Thank you very much!

Be well!

Rav Yosef,

We are opening a new Yeshiva High School with a boys division and girls division. I have volunteered to teach 90 minutes each Monday morning. I am planning to do machshava for the first 30 minutes. For the next hour I want to do practical halacha but from a shaylo oriented approach. This way I can make it fun and meaningful to them. I was going to use a sefer like Rav Zilberstein's V'haerev Na, but after seeing the sample lesson Rabbi Nissel sent, I think your material would be more exciting and meaningful to these boys. These are modern orthodox boys for whom I am working hard to show the shalsheles of halacha and its relevance.

How many units do you have?

Any help you could give would be GREATLY appreciated.
