

Hi all,

As some of you know, we have been conducting a faculty training series to empower our physicians and researchers to build better relationships with private institutional funders. We will be hosting our third event in the series, a Stewardship Roundtable with Private Funders, which will provide faculty with an opportunity to hear firsthand from medical research and other institutional health funders on what good stewardship means to them. This will be a moderated panel with questions covering a range of stewardship issues unique to foundation funders.

Please circulate this to your faculty—all are welcome.
