There was a time in U.S. history when the Native American dances were illegal and celebrating Native culture was considered against the law. But through the test of time, Native people still have their existence and influence on our world today. Their mental health and well-being is celebrated through song and dance called, "Powwows." These events are a celebration of life. Celebrating that they still have their dances, they still have their songs, and most of all, they still have their languages.

So come join us in this two-day event celebrating the lives and well-beings of Native American people. We encourage everyone to come share your ideas, tell others about your products and offer your services, as the University of Redlands Powwow will host people of all races from all across the United States and Canada. EVERYONE IS WELCOME!
