

LIVING YOUR FAITH, DISCERNING YOUR CALL

Consider the lilies, how they grow: they neither toil nor spin; yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not clothed like one of these – Luke 1:27 (NRSV)

The life we most deeply desire is ready to unfold. When we release our ego driven needs for power, prestige and possessions we find the freedom to ask:

- What do I care about most?
- What am I really good at?
- Who are my people?
- What spiritual practices dispose me to hear God's call?
- Where do I find the courage to take the next step?

If you are seeking to let your life unfold in some way, mark your calendar for Saturday, March 19, 2016. The Episcopal Diocese of Western Massachusetts is opening its Loving the Questions program in the morning from 9:00 am to Noon at All Saints Church in South Hadley, MA to anyone who would like a taste of what the participants are doing. You will be able to engage the questions above, concentrating especially on some spiritual practices which can dispose you to hear God's call and then paying attention to those needs of the world that call urgently to you.

The workshop leader, the Rev. Dr. John de Beer, formerly a priest in the Diocese of Massachusetts, is the author of The Art of Theological Reflection and a well-respected speaker and presenter on the subject of connecting daily life and faith.

The registration fee is $25.00. For more information and to register, please contact Robin Carlo, the Missioner for Spiritual Formation for the Diocese of Western MA at spiritualformationwma@gmail.com.
