Raleigh, NC 27605

(9:00 AM- 4:00 PM)

There are 6 CE credits available for APA, NBCC & ASWB

(Seating is limited to the first 20 registrants.)

This training will explore practical implications of current research involving co-occurring disorders. A structured but flexible screening and treatment model will be presented to assist professionals in evaluating and engaging individuals effectively. Interactive learning methods will be emphasized throughout this training.

Learning Objectives:

- Identifying the complex needs of individuals with co-occurring disorders in mental health and substance abuse treatment systems
- Utilizing a quadrant system for basic screening, treatment planning, and referral
- An overview of evidence-based interventions and treatment applications for co-occurring disorders
- Ethical and licensure considerations of scope of practice for practitioners and supervisors
- Providing flexible services to address the array of mental health and substance abuse needs

Faculty: Joanna Linn, Ph.D., LPC, LPCS, LCAS, CCS

Joanna has been a substance abuse counselor and clinical supervisor in outpatient programs as well as hospital settings. She is a Licensed Professional Counselor, Licensed Professional Counselor Supervisor, Licensed Clinical Addition Specialist, and Certified Clinical Supervisor. She is also an adjunct college instructor teaching counseling, wellness and stress management courses. She has presented at multiple organizational, state, regional, and national conferences and has been a past chair of the Cutting Edge Techniques committee of the IAAOC division of the American Counseling Association.

Target Audience: Appropriate for clinical professionals, educators, supervisors, and providers in both mental health and substance abuse treatment systems.

Cost: $100.00 after March 14, 2014
Early-bird will be $75.00 until March 14, 2014
