DANIEL K. TAYLOR JOINS ENGLANDER FISCHER AS ASSOCIATE ATTORNEY

ST. PETERSBURG, FL (Aug. 31, 2015) — The law firm of Englander Fischer is pleased to announce that attorney Daniel K. Taylor has joined its litigation practice. Mr. Taylor brings with him a diverse legal background, including extensive litigation and trial experience. As an associate attorney with the firm, he will practice in the areas of complex commercial litigation, governmental investigations, class action defense and local government advocacy. He is licensed to practice law in Florida and Illinois.

Over the course of his career so far, Mr. Taylor has aggressively negotiated thousands of cases to resolution. Before coming to Florida, he practiced law in the Greater Chicago Area, where he served as the managing partner of his own civil litigation and criminal defense practice. Prior to running his own practice, he was an associate attorney with a boutique civil litigation firm, also in the Greater Chicago Area, and served as Assistant State's Attorney for the McHenry County State's Attorney's Office.

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of The John Marshall Law School, where he served as the Chief Justice of the institution's Moot Court Honors Society. He has also been a trial advocacy instructor at North Central College, his undergraduate alma mater, where he led the university's mock trial team to its first ever tournament victory.

Highly active in the local community, Mr. Taylor serves on the Ambassador Committee for the Greater Tampa Chamber of Commerce and participates in various charitable organizations and events.

“We could not be more proud to have Daniel Taylor join the firm,” said Leonard S. “Lenny” Englander, senior partner at Englander Fischer. “His strength and tenacity as a litigator is exactly what we look for when adding a new member to the Englander Fischer team. We are very excited for his future with us.”
