

Dear Members,

Welcome to fall! For some of us, that means the start of new projects or the beginning of a new school year for our children. Here at CUP, this fall marks the start of a brand new series of programs and initiatives that we're excited to share with you all.

This year, we are taking our message of diversity and inclusion all the way to California, where we'll be kicking off a speaker series in Los Angeles. Our first discussion will take place on October 1 and feature Nina Shaw, Founding Partner of Del Shaw Moonves Tanaka Finkelstein & Lezcano, in conversation with Debra Langford Officer of Diversity & Inclusion Initiatives at USC Marshall and CEO & Principal of The Langford Company, discussing what it takes to negotiate a long-term career. This will be the first in a series of conversations we're holding in LA about Business, Innovation, & Leadership in the world today.

CUP would also like to welcome and recognize our newest cohort of CUP Catalysts: Change Agents 2015 in Finance. We are looking forward to recognizing our 2015 Catalysts in Law and Media & Entertainment professionals for their extraordinary success and history of commitment to their communities. Stay tuned to find out which of your colleagues we will honor this fall.

Lastly, this fall marks an important change for CUP as we launch our new website www.cupusa.org. We have a brand new look and much more information about our upcoming LA and NYC event series. Please follow the link, check out the site, and let us know what content you might like to see.

Connect with us this fall!
