The 11 members of the Yemin Orde Youth Choir who are performing in the U.S. are teenagers, between 15 and 18 years of age. Yemin Orde graduate, Sandro Golis, 25, is also performing with the group. Choir members are from Ethiopia, France, former Soviet Union, Brazil and Israel-born. They represent the fascinating mosaic of the 440 at-risk children who live and learn at Yemin Orde Youth Village. Yemin Orde's youth, most of them new immigrants to Israel, struggle with overwhelming cultural and educational challenges of integrating into Israeli society.

Yemin Orde provides the critical therapeutic and academic support needed to turn young troubled lives around. Fragile teens embrace hope in an environment that reflects the joy and promise of a bright future as productive citizens of Israel.

“I see our choir as a beautiful tapestry representing hope for Israel’s future.”

—Shmuli Bing, Director, Yemin Orde Youth Village

Yemin Orde, located in northern Israel, near Haifa, is open 24/7, year-round, for its youth without family or a home in Israel. Visitors are encouraged to stop by for a tour, meet the children and experience, first-hand, the magic of Yemin Orde.
