

FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SERVICE

FACULTY POSITION

Associate/Full Professor

Applicants are invited to apply for one of two full-time positions at the rank of Associate/Full Professor for appointments that will begin September 2016. U.S. News and World Report has ranked the Graduate School of Social Service (GSS) at Fordham University #11 in the country. GSS is located in the heart of NYC at Lincoln Center and has campuses in Westchester and Long Island, as well as international programs in London and Beijing. GSS offers a unique range of programs including a baccalaureate, masters and doctoral program in social work, an asynchronous on-line MSW program and, in collaboration with the Graduate School of Business Administration, a Master of Science degree in Nonprofit Leadership. As an integral part of a Jesuit University, GSS educates and prepares social workers to serve diverse populations within a human rights and social justice framework.

The Graduate School of Social Service is a collegial and supportive community of scholars recognized for their outstanding research and their collective dedication to teaching excellence. We are seeking highly qualified individuals who are committed to progressive curriculum design, innovative program development, and inter-professional research and collaboration. Candidates with expertise in the areas of healthcare/mental health, health care systems, health disparities, and non-profit organizations will be given particular consideration. In keeping with GSS and Fordham University's commitment to enhancing faculty diversity, individuals from historically underrepresented populations are especially encouraged to apply

Candidates must hold an MSW and a doctorate in social work or a related discipline. In addition, candidates must have a significant record of research and scholarship commensurate with the rank of Associate or Full Professor.

Qualified applicants should submit their curriculum vitae, a letter of interest highlighting their expertise in teaching and research, and two representative samples of publications or writing. All application materials should be sent directly to:
