

University of Phoenix®
College of Education

It's more than a job. It's a calling.

Help answer the need for educators in Hawaii.

Be a part of a movement to make a difference on Hawaii's future generations. Join us for an event designed to help you start your career as a substitute teacher or transition into a full-time teaching role.

We will be offering breakout sessions in Classroom Management, Instructional Strategies and Tips for Success for anyone interested in attending.

What you'll learn:

- Why teaching is rewarding: Hear a panel of award-winning, state-recognized educators share their perspectives.
- How to become a teacher: Speak with representatives from the public, private or charter school system about becoming a substitute or full-time teacher.
- Where to enroll: Learn about different paths to licensure from teacher preparation providers from across the state.

University of Phoenix initial degree programs lead to teacher certification (Early Childhood, Elementary, Middle Level, Secondary and Special Education) in certain states. The College of Education offers state-approved programs in Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Nevada, New Mexico and Texas. College of Education programs are offered in Florida based on home-state approval from the Arizona Department of Education. Individual programs vary by state, and not all programs are available at all locations or in both online and on-campus modalities.

Students who complete the Bachelor of Science in Education/Early Childhood Education program through the online campus will complete a program that prepares for teacher licensure in Arizona. Candidates may request an institutional recommendation upon successful completion of their program (academic and program requirements). Candidates should check with their state agency for any state-specific requirements, including the acceptability of the University's initial programs in any state in which they intend to seek licensure or certification. Program requirements are subject to change based on state certification requirements. Please speak to a campus representative for a listing of programs available at each campus location.
