

Esther Attean's Statement for Americans Who Tell the Truth

For native people forced assimilation and acculturation distort our thoughts, feelings and actions creating a disconnect with our identity and traditions.

We start to believe that there is something wrong with us.

The truth is our resilience, strength, humor and intelligence have saved us from extinction, will enable us to heal from generational trauma and will restore our culture so we may thrive as the distinct, unique, beautiful people the Creator meant for us to be.
