

Volunteering Just Got Easier

Did you know that United Way regularly connects volunteers with opportunities at agencies who need their volunteer support?

It's called the Day of Caring™ program, and we work with organizations year round to find meaningful volunteer opportunities with our partner agencies. It's also another way we can help our non-profit partners find additional resources.

We pride ourselves on being a community partner and resource for non-profits in many ways, and with this in mind, we will be expanding this program to support agencies outside of our current partnership agreements in order to accommodate the increase of requests from organizations wanting to volunteer.

If you want to organize volunteer efforts at your workplace, we encourage you to give us a call. It's a great way to increase company morale and build a positive team spirit. For more information, click <http://caunitedway.ca/fundraising-campaign/day-of-caring/>
