Position Available: Senior Clinical Research Psychologist

The Developmental Medicine Center (DMC) in the Division of Developmental Medicine and the Department of Psychiatry at Boston Children's Hospital seek a full time clinical research psychologist to work synergistically with our existing faculty and programs, to provide scientific leadership and mentorship to the DMC psychology faculty. This position is partially supported by an endowed Chair at Boston Children's Hospital. The Developmental Medicine Center (DMC) is one of the largest clinical programs for the diagnosis and treatment of neurodevelopmental disorders in the world, and is dedicated to promoting research, teaching, and service innovations designed to improve the lives of children, adolescents, and families. The DMC provides services for children from infancy through adolescence who present with complex neurodevelopmental disorders, including autism spectrum disorders, medical and genetic conditions, intellectual disabilities, and learning, attentional, behavioral and regulatory disorders. The DMC has a large, well-developed clinical research infrastructure and a large portfolio of ongoing extramurally funded studies. There are many opportunities to be involved in research and psychologists are actively involved in the education of psychology post-doctoral fellows, developmental and behavioral pediatric fellows, and medical students.

Applicants must possess a Massachusetts health service provider license in psychology prior to assuming the position, and preferably have ten or more years of experience. Successful candidate must be able to qualify as an Associate or Full Professor at Harvard Medical School based on their clinical and research qualifications. Graduates of APA/CPA-approved doctoral programs and internships are preferred.
