The Stanford University School of Medicine is initiating a search for the position of Professor and Chair of the Department of Obstetrics & Gynecology.

Recognized as one of the world's leading research and teaching institutions, Stanford University is located in Silicon Valley, the heart of the Bay Area bioscience community. The School of Medicine is situated on the Stanford campus, which includes the Schools of Humanities and Sciences, Engineering, Law, Business, Earth Sciences, and Education. It is directly adjacent to two internationally renowned hospitals: Stanford Hospital and Lucile Packard Children’s Hospital Stanford.

To fill this position, Stanford is seeking a person who combines proven leadership skills with an outstanding record of academic accomplishment, a commitment to excellence in clinical care, research, and educational missions of the department, an understanding of the complexity of academic medicine, and the creative vision to help shape the future of a dynamic department. The Chair reports to the Dean of the School of Medicine and will also be expected to work collaboratively with other Chairs of the School of Medicine, leaders of the interdisciplinary institutes at Stanford, and the leadership of Stanford Health Care, Stanford Children’s Health, and the Veterans Affairs Palo Alto Health Care System to achieve the goals of the Department and the Stanford medical community.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It encourages and welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions and perspectives to the university’s research, teaching, and clinical missions.

More information about the department can be found at http://obgyn.stanford.edu. Interested candidates should submit an electronic CV, 1-2 page cover letter describing their accomplishments, and a biographical sketch (like that used by the NIH) by January 31, 2016 to Trevor Myers at tdmyers@stanford.edu.
