

UC Davis - Transplant Nephrology - Director of Living Donor Program

One of the Top 5 Kidney Transplant Programs in the Country

University of California, Davis- Seeks a Director of the Living Donor Program That Can Champion The Living Donor Transplantation and Bring Growth from 70 this Year

UC Davis has seen an explosion in their kidney transplants in the past decade, making them one of the largest kidney transplant centers in the United States. The majority of the growth has been in deceased donors accounting for eighty percent of their current transplants annually. The goal in this recruitment is to find a Director of Living Donor with innovative ideas that can match the number of deceased donor transplants they do each year.

Highlights

- World-class health research center that conducts high impact basic, clinical and translational research—NIH Clinical and Translational Science Award Program makes this a hub of innovation
- University teaching hospital ranks among the nation's best hospitals for safe, high quality care
- Kidney transplants highlight the transplant program- no liver or heart
- Five experienced and tenured surgeons that are looking for a nephrologist they can partner with in living donor transplant to catapult this program to national recognition
- Nine transplant coordinators that are experienced and trusted by surgery due to their fund of knowledge and tenure in the program—they are excited to have someone lead this program; their passion for living donor transplant is evident
- Participate in the development of the transplant clinical research center by participating in multicenter pharmaceutical trials as well as investigator initiated studies
- Fifty percent time allotted to grow the living donor program

Sacramento is certainly one of the most livable, affordable and desirable communities on the West Coast, as it offers the best of California living without the frantic pace of the more overcrowded metropolitan bustle. It is unique in its central location with a short drive east to Lake Tahoe and the mountains or a short drive west to San Francisco and Napa Valley. Many families choose to live here because the public school systems are fantastic and the cost living is far less than living in San Francisco. It is ideal for those that love being outdoors with great hiking, biking, boating and an abundance of city parks, plus professional sports teams.
