

Executive Health Leadership | University of Minnesota

Build an Academic Executive Medicine Program | University of Minnesota Seeking a Director of Executive Health

Merritt Hawkins invites you to consider an Executive Medicine Leadership opportunity that provides a unique balance of practice fulfillment and quality of life. We are seeking a quality and experience-focused Director of Executive Health with leadership experience. The features of this opportunity include:

- Play an integral role in establishing and building an academic executive health and wellness program
- Evidence-based Executive Health and Wellness
- Ideal candidate will have leadership experience
- Outpatient clinic – no inpatient requirements
- Opportunity to teach
- Competitive salary and comprehensive benefits package
- Great working environment – program supported at the highest level
- New state-of-the-art facilities
- Impact thousands of lives through your contributions to funding academic research and education
- Ranked in the top 10 for primary care by U.S. News and World Report

Minneapolis

In addition to enjoying an excellent work-life balance with a reputable academic program, enjoy living in a scenic metro area offering:

- Metro area of 3.8 million
- Access to international airports
- World-class cuisine and culture
- Countless outdoor amenities
- World-class performing arts and cultural activities
- Be part of an eclectic art and music scene, enjoy theater performances
- Run, bike, skate or stroll on miles of city trails
- Explore more than 300 parks
- Excellent public, private and higher education options available
- Enjoy five major professional sports leagues

This institution is an affirmative action equal opportunity employer that values diversity. Candidates of all backgrounds are encouraged to apply.

Contact Ashlie Korb, Senior Search Consultant, at 866.406.0269 today to learn more. Please reference IM-9530.