

Chief of Gastroenterology
University of Nevada – Las Vegas
Full Academic Appointment with Opportunity to Build Program
Clinician Leadership Role – University Setting- Brand New Medical School to Open 2017

We are seeking an experienced Gastroenterologist with a record of outstanding clinical and academic success to serve as the Chief of Gastroenterology for the University School of Medicine. This individual will lead the division through continued growth and development of the highest quality clinical programs to cultivate a comprehensive, multi-disciplinary care approach for adult patients in the region's preeminent academic medical center. Additionally, the successful candidate will provide key leadership for a medical school that is expanding its services in the community.

OPPORTUNITY:

- Robust referral pipeline for Gastroenterologists with ERCP, EUS or Hepatology focus
- 1:4 rotation at just one hospital
- No in house call, high quality of life
- Competitive compensation package with excellent benefits
- 13% 401k matching
- Predominantly clinical role with opportunity for teaching and research
- Strong university and community referral base promises immediate ramp up
- Lead in the university's growth and expansion by being a champion for your respective specialty
- Immerse yourself in this beautiful community just minutes away from mountains, lakes, and entertainment.

Las Vegas

In addition to enjoying an excellent mix of income and quality of life, you will be living in a dynamic picturesque city offering master planned communities, major tourist attractions including a multitude of historic sites, famous architecture, community events, world class entertainment and an international airport. Enjoy restaurants offering incredible food from award winning chefs and unique shopping experiences without leaving your zip code.

Interested candidates can contact Jay Torio via email at jay.torio@merritthawkins.com, or via phone at 469.524.1689.