COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS

Director of Medical Ethics
College of Physicians & Surgeons
Columbia University
New York, NY

The College of Physicians & Surgeons (P&S) of Columbia University is seeking an outstanding leader in medical ethics to assume the newly created position of Director of Medical Ethics. The Center will become a focal point for the academic efforts in medical ethics at the Medical Center, integrating theory with empirical data and practice.

The Director will organize and oversee a new Center for Medical Ethics, which will include a robust, externally funded research program and educational activities directed at the broader Medical Center community. The Director will unite current medical ethics resources across the university and add depth and increased scholarship to enhance and build the program. As clinical medicine incorporates emerging technology for both diagnostic and treatment purposes, the Director will lead Columbia's effort in translational medical ethics. The Director of Medical Ethics will engage the resources at the Medical Center and University to launch a program in medical ethics, consistent with the broad tripartite mission of P&S and the Medical Center.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons seeks a leader with intellectual vision, a passion for medical ethics, and the track record to inspire excellence. Leading by example, the Director must have a strong history of scholarship and funded research in this area. S/he will require a deep and broad understanding of the challenges raised by the changing healthcare and scientific landscapes.

All nominations and referrals are invited. The search will remain open until the position is filled but candidate materials should be received as soon as possible. Columbia University has retained Isaacson, Miller, a national executive search firm, to assist in this search. Inquiries, nominations, referrals, and resumes with cover letters should be sent in confidence to:
