ALLEN WEST GUARDIAN FUND—ENDORSED CANDIDATES

DAN BONGINO, MD-6

Dan spent 12 years with the Secret Service and in 2006 he entered into duty with the elite Presidential Protection Division in the administration of President George W. Bush. Dan remained on protective duty during the change in administration to President Barack Obama, quickly becoming the highest ranking member of his operational shift of agents. He was designated as the lead agent responsible for the coordination of President Obama's visits to Prague, Jakarta, amongst a myriad of terror threats, and finally as the lead agent responsible for his visit to an active war zone in Afghanistan.

Upon resigning from the Secret Service in 2011, Dan began a grassroots campaign for the U.S. Senate. Despite overwhelming odds, Dan defeated nine opponents in the Republican primary. Dan finished second in a three way race in the general election and continues to act as an activist within the community.

Dan is currently married with two young children. His wife Paula is a web-design and social-media consultant.

CONGRESSMAN TOM COTTON, AR-SENATE

Tom Cotton represents the Fourth Congressional District of Arkansas. A native of Dardanelle, Tom graduated from Harvard and Harvard Law School. He clerked for the U.S. Court of Appeals and practiced law before joining the United States Army as an infantry officer. Tom spent nearly five years on active duty, deploying to both Iraq and Afghanistan. Tom's military decorations include the Bronze Star Medal, Combat Infantryman Badge, and Ranger tab. Most recently, Tom worked as a management consultant for McKinsey & Co. He began his first term in Congress in January 2013 and currently sits on the Financial Services and Foreign Affairs Committees.

E.W. JACKSON, GOP NOMINEE LT GOVERNOR, VA

E.W. Jackson served three years and was honorably discharged from the United States Marine Corps. He then graduated with a Bachelor of Arts Degree(BA), Summa Cum Laude with a Phi Beta Kappa Key from the University of Massachusetts at Boston. Three years later he graduated from Harvard Law School with a Juris Doctor (JD). While in law school, he was accepted into the Baptist ministry and studied theology at Harvard Divinity School.

Jackson practiced small business law for 15 years in Boston, and taught Regulatory Law as an Adjunct Professor at the Graduate level at Northeastern University in Boston. Since returning to his ancestral home of Virginia, he has also taught graduate courses in Business and Commercial Law at Strayer University in Virginia Beach and Chesapeake.

In 1997, he retired from his private law practice in order to devote full time to ministry. However, he still taught law and maintained both his avid interest in – and commitment to – civic and political responsibility. His first book, "Ten Commandments to an Extraordinary Life" was published in 2008.

He is the Founder of Exodus Faith Ministries, a nondenominational Christian church in Chesapeake, Virginia with a satellite in Boston, Massachusetts. On July 4, 2009, he launched S.T.A.N.D. – Staying True to America's National Destiny (www.standamerica.us), a national organization dedicated to restoring America's founding

In recognition of his national ministry leadership, E.W. Jackson was consecrated a Bishop in 1998. He and his wife, Theodora, have been married for forty-two years, have three children and reside in Chesapeake, Virginia

MIA LOVE, UT-4

Mia Love is the mayor of Saratoga Springs, Utah, a city of nearly 20,000 residents and which is one of the fastest-growing communities in the United States.

Mayor Love is a strong and vocal advocate for conservative principles; particularly that government at every level must be restrained and restricted and must live within its means. To the extent that government regulation is necessary, Mia believes that such regulation should be imposed at the level closest to those governed.

Mia was born to Haitian immigrant parents, who fled the oppression and socialism of that island nation. Her parents worked multiple, often menial jobs in order to give Mia a better life and the opportunity to live the American Dream.

Mayor Love is a wife (husband – Jason) and the mother of three beautiful children. When not fighting over-reaching government bureaucracy, Mia is an avid runner, tread trainer and accomplished singer and dancer.
