Raja Ampat's reefs are a painter's pallet of color of color and variety, and home to over 1200 species of fish and more marine life than anywhere else on the planet. Big animals are common here, with manta ray cleaning stations, schools of mobala rays and plenty of shark sightings. One of the rarest sharks seen in these waters is the wobbegong shark.

The diversity of dive sites is remarkable; some areas the soft corals and sea fans dominate, others have a spectacular hard coral seascape, mangroves shallow reefs, drop offs, caves, black sand, white sand and seagrass beds. All of these environments combine to house a huge amount of marine life; from pygmy seahorses to top predators and everything in between. The reefs of Raja Ampat literally buzz with life , but beware, sensory overload here is a common problem.

Set in the heart of Indonesia, in splendid isolation are the Banda Islands. The small human population of this area means lower fishing pressure and the islands have maintained a vibrant, natural and healthy reef system. As a result you can expect reefs bursting with life. Its true treasure is in the large variety and sheer volume of fish life, keep on the lookout for the native Ambon scorpion fish.

You will explore this area on the Aggressor, featuring a roomy, air-conditioned salon and dining area, and shaded sun deck complete with lounge and deck chairs. The service and the food is simply incredible.
