Pathways to Professions: Creative Sector

In partnership with Business West and hosted by Pervasive Media Studios

Thursday 23 June 2016 – 4pm to 6.30pm

Following on from the success of the Pathways to Professions events run by the West of England Local Enterprise Partnership, the National Careers Service in partnership with Business West is offering careers advisors and those giving careers advice to young people in the West of England the opportunity to hear from key industry professionals in the Creative sector. Also hear about new apprenticeship opportunities in the region and how to advise on the best routes into a creative career.

Speakers

Chloe Meineck - Social designer & Inventor

Chloe is a designer, maker, inventor and social entrepreneur based in Bristol and London. Her work sits between the worlds of technology, craft, design and art, and focusses on inclusive design processes in order to develop products with a social purpose.

Rebecca Gouldson - Metal work Artist

Rebecca is a working artist who creates elegant metal wall pieces for domestic, corporate and public spaces. Rebecca studied metalwork as an MA and has gone onto create a successful business from her craft, giving talks and advice across the UK and abroad.

Martha King - Artist and Producer, Knowle West Media Centre

Martha works to develop and deliver the Arts Programme at KWMC. Her work includes liaising with artists, co-ordinating the practical day-to-day delivery of KWMC's arts programme and supporting the development of partnerships with cultural organisations and community engagement.

Oliver Jones - Director of Creativity Works

Oliver joined Creativity Works in January 2014. In collaboration with Middlesex University, he created and delivered a unique MA Education (drama) for teachers of secondary drama and theatre studies. Creativity Works run arts and health projects in Bath, Bristol and beyond offering creative activities and courses to inspire and empower mental health and well being.
