

The landscape architecture and urban design intern is a full-time 12 to 16 week position working closely with Asakura Robinson's landscape architecture and urban design staff on a number of design projects. Positions will be based in Austin and Houston, Texas. Projects currently under development include park master plans with strong emphasis on green infrastructure and sustainable development. Projects may include community engagement components and development of master plans and construction document packages. These positions entail a high level of responsibility and will work directly with clients and stakeholders on exciting and interesting projects in the Gulf Coast region.

Asakura Robinson is a planning, urban design, and landscape architecture firm which strengthens environments and positively impacts communities through innovation, engagement, stewardship, and an integrated design process and our employees are leaders in social and environmental design. As a firm, we strive to assist visionary clients to spur positive change. We focus on engaging communities in ever more diverse project contexts while maintaining a high level of creativity and collaboration in every endeavor.

Three key values inform all of our work: interaction, diversity and innovation. We value the ability of the public to participate in our projects, creating places that encourage social interaction, and our staff's deep engagement in our communities. We value our diverse workplace and communities and seek to optimize existing community-based and ecological resources. Finally, we value creativity in our processes, materials, technology, collaborations, approach, and design palette.

Both offices are located close to transit and we are a Bicycle Friendly Business. We are small offices that are joined together by our common beliefs and philosophy. In short, it's a great place to work. Internships are paid. Stipend will be dependent on experience and will be negotiated following a successful application.
