You Ask:
Is the Library planning anything new for 2013?

We Answer:

In 2013 the Newport News Public Library System will launch its new eLibrary at www.nnpls.libguides.com. This new website will feature areas where patrons can chat with library staff, learn about events, and discover Library resources. The eLibrary is easy to navigate, visually dynamic, and, perhaps most importantly, more timely.

Patrons will find areas dedicated to genealogy, homework help, reading activities, as well as volunteer opportunities and special programs. The Library hopes to make it easier for patrons to engage with the programs and staff so that they can make full use of the resources the Library System has to offer. The public can browse reviews, register for programs and classes, and access library materials from home via the Downloadable eBooks or Music collections. The Newport News Public eLibrary will bring the Library to you – at home or on the go!

Watch for more information about the new website in the next few months.

Information provided by Alexandria Payne, digital services manager for the Newport News Public Library System.
For more information, please contact the reference staff of any Newport News Public Library.