The brief reading will focus on the legendary convivencia—the “living together” of Muslim, Christian, and Jewish communities in Medieval Spain. It was an era of extraordinary accomplishment in science, mathematics, art, and governance. It is a brilliant historical example of the power and intelligence of interfaith alliance.

The panel will discuss the ways in which just such work is carried out today, and how it might be deepened, extended, and enriched, so as to build a foundation of hope for a peaceful future.
