

DR. NICHOLAS WOLTERSTORFF

Nicholas Wolterstorff is Noah Porter Professor Emeritus of Philosophical Theology at Yale University, Senior Research Fellow in the Institute for Advanced Studies in Culture at the University of Virginia, and Honorary Professor of Australian Catholic University. He graduated from Calvin College in 1953 and received his Ph.D. in philosophy from Harvard University in 1956. He taught philosophy at Calvin College from 1959 to 1989, and was on the faculty of Yale Divinity School and the Yale philosophy department from 1989 until he retired at the end of 2001.

He has been President of the American Philosophical Association (Central Division) and President of the Society of Christian Philosophers. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Among the named lectures he has given are the Wilde Lectures at Oxford University, the Gifford Lectures at St Andrews University, and the Taylor Lectures at Yale.

His publications include Justice: Rights and Wrongs (Princeton 2008), Justice in Love (Eerdmans 2011), Understanding Liberal Democracy (Oxford, 2012), Journey toward Justice (Baker 2013), The God We Worship (Eerdmans 2015), and Art Rethought (Oxford 2015).

CHARITY IS NOT ENOUGH: WHY JUSTICE MATTERS

*Why do many people prefer supporting charitable organizations to working for justice?
What it is about charity and what it is about justice that makes charity often not enough?*

Sunday, April 24 at 3:00 PM

Shambaugh Auditorium
Main Library, University of Iowa

WHAT MAKES GRATUITOUS GENEROSITY SOMETIMES UNJUST?

*Professor Wolterstorff will briefly present the main ideas.
Evan Fales, University of Iowa, will respond and a discussion will follow.*

Monday, April 25 at 3:30 PM

105 EPB (English-Philosophy Building)

Attendees are asked to read the paper in advance, available at www.geneva-ui.org.

Event 1

Event 2