

Stay Connected.

Toronto the Great? Panel Discussion and Young Alum Networking Reception

Tuesday, February 24, 2015, at 6:00 p.m.
Fasken Martineau, 333 Bay Street, Suite 2400, Toronto

Please join us for a networking reception for young alum from Branksome Hall, UCC and BSS. Complimentary, but RSVP is required!

The panel will discuss Toronto's emergence as a global leader and how life in this multi-cultural hub affects its citizens.

Moderator: John Stackhouse'81
UCC Old Boy
Senior VP, Office of the CEO,
RBC

John is Advisor to the CEO of Canada's largest publicly traded company. Responsible for gathering and interpreting global economic, business, political and social trends and providing insights on how these are affecting RBC, its clients and society at large. Former editor-in-chief of The Globe and Mail, a noted speaker, moderator, and writer on national affairs, with a focus on Canada's role in the world.

Panelist: Kendall ANDERSON'94 Branksome Hall alumna
Acting Director and Communications Manager,
Samara

Samara is a non-partisan charitable organization that works to improve political participation in Canada. Kendall is responsible for Samara's communications including the production and dissemination of Samara Canada's ground-breaking research reports and educational materials, and innovative online engagement projects like the Everyday Political Citizen.

Panelist: Meg Davis'82
BSS Old Girl
VP of Development,
Waterfront Toronto

Meg is an experienced planner and development manager for private developers and consultants. She holds an MBA and a degree in Urban Studies.

Meg is a Member of the Canadian Institute of Planners, Urban Land Institute, Ontario Professional Planners Institute, and Lambda Alpha International, The Honorary Society for the Advancement of Land Economics.

Panelist: Jeff Dennis'76
UCC Old Boy
Counsel and Serial Entrepreneur, Fasken Martineau

Jeff Dennis is a lawyer and serial entrepreneur. He is a "trusted advisor" who works with high growth companies providing strategic advice and financing in their quest to get to the next level. He has been involved in start-ups, acquisitions and financings for a variety of businesses.