

The Jennifer Bush-Lawson

FOUNDATION

Helping mothers and children in need access prenatal and postnatal care

Throughout her three pregnancies and despite her healthy lifestyle, Jennifer Bush-Lawson was challenged with gestational diabetes and hypertension, as well as premature deliveries. Jennifer was fortunate to have access to high-quality care and first-rate doctors, and she and her children remained healthy despite pregnancy complications.

Unfortunately, there are thousands of mothers and children in our community who are not so fortunate. Jennifer recognized this void in our healthcare system and wanted to do something about it.

The Jennifer Bush-Lawson Foundation is giving pregnant women and their children renewed hope by providing access to affordable pre- and post-natal care. Your foundation donations and efforts will be put to use immediately to make a difference in the lives of women and children locally and nationally.

OUR MISSION

Founded in the belief that every mother and every child deserve important healthcare services for a healthy start in life, the Jennifer Bush-Lawson Foundation provides access to medical services, counseling and support for economically vulnerable mothers-to-be, newborn babies and postpartum mothers who don't have the means or resources to start their journey on solid footing. Jennifer dedicated her life to her children and to being the best mother possible. She believed that every mother — regardless of race, color, creed, or economic status — should have an opportunity to do the same.
