Helping Tri-State Trucking 'Fix' Their Need for Diesel Mechanics

Tri-State Truck Center, a family owned company in Shrewsbury, MA has been encountering a high demand for diesel and specialty mechanics, but have had issues finding qualified candidates. Tri-State contacted Business Service Rep John McCarthy of Workforce Central Worcester and the Central Massachusetts Workforce Investment Board to assist with their needs. In this initial meeting, staff identified Tri-State's need and went to work on finding a way to help. Since Tri-State has already implemented a very innovative in-house training program, staff organized a meeting with David Wallace the Director of the Massachusetts Department of Apprenticeship to provide more information on apprenticeship and training grants offered through the state that could help Tri-State.
