Informational Workshops

On January 5, Eaton Corporation facilitated a workshop describing their purchase of the former Wright-Line Company and new opportunities for job seekers with Eaton. The workshop was well attended and personal interviews were offered to interested individuals after the event.

If your company is interested in developing a workshop or session to inform job seekers and conduct interviews, Workforce Central can assist. Contact your local Business Service Representative—see below.

For more information about how Workforce Central Career Center can help your business, please contact your local Business Service Representative.
