

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE JEWISH FAMILY & CAREER SERVICES BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Atlanta, GA, January, 28, 2015

The Board of Directors of Jewish Family & Career Services (JF&CS) of Atlanta announces the realization of a long-term transition plan that will ensure the continuation of our best-in-practice services and the accomplishment of our strategic goals.

Gary Miller, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of JF&CS for 24 years, will step into a strategic advisory role effective July 1, 2015. His vision and leadership has resulted in the transformation of this organization demonstrated by tremendous growth in service capacity and delivery, resource development and talent management. The organization is recognized as a leading national model in the human service arena.

Rick Aranson, who has served as the Chief Operating Officer for the past eleven years, will assume the role of CEO on July 1, 2015. An Ad Hoc Transition Committee appointed by the organization's Executive Committee has guided the transition to ensure the legacy of strong leadership.

The Board of Directors has unanimously approved the management succession plan and wishes both professionals every success in their new roles.
