Social Dynamics Through Childhood

What's Normal?

In this lecture, we will examine the following:

- How children's social-emotional development grows over time
 - The differences between bullying and normal childhood disagreements
- How Waldorf educators creatively work with each student's gradually unfolding social-emotional awareness along with their classes' unique social dynamic

Presented by Patti Connolly

About Patti Connolly

Ms. Connolly became involved with Waldorf education in 1989, when she helped to found the Cedar Springs Waldorf School. She is certified in Waldorf Teacher Education and has served as a class teacher, faculty administrator, evaluator and mentor. She also has taught in the Public School Institute at Rudolf Steiner College and has led summer curriculum workshops at both Kona Pacific Public Charter School and Journey Charter School. In addition, she consults with a UK-Aid education project in Nigeria developing training modules for teachers, and periodically leads workshops for master teachers on development and support. Her educational interests lie in brain development, student-centered teaching, parent and teacher education, and supporting and advocating for special needs students.
