Plymouth, NH 03264

Join us in learning more about Community Health Worker (CHW) initiatives and how to integrate CHWs into hospitals, medical practices, community health centers and social service settings. The CHW model is an essential strategy that other states have adopted to facilitate consumer access to services and improve the quality and cultural competence of service delivery.

Community Health Workers can:

- Help patients navigate the healthcare system
- Increase patient and community engagement in support of Meaningful Use and PCMH

Learning Objectives

At the end of this summit you will be able to:

- Discuss the role of the CHW
- Discuss the value that CHWs bring to the practice team
- Describe how CHWs can be incorporated into your organization

Target Audience

Representatives of health systems, social service, and community organizations as well as legislators and CHWs who are seeking new models of care to promote access to services and minimize health disparities.
