"Master The Art of Updating Thousands of Web Pages In Less Than 5 Minutes With This Proven, Easy to Use Software!"

Alias Find and Replace is a very powerful software for Windows 95/98/Me/NT/2000/XP/Vista/Seven allowing you to change or update multiple web pages/files at once !

Alias Find and Replace is the tool you need to change or add a banner code, a link, a copyright notice ... or simply to correct a spelling mistake across hundreds of webpages or text documents without having to edit each of them manually !

Features

for the new 1.3.0 version !

- Works with text files such as Web Pages, PHP/ASP/Perl Scripts ...
- Finds and Replaces multiple text strings in multiple files at once !
- Finds and Replaces a text block in multiple files at once. Great to change banner html codes in multiple web pages at once !
- Finds and Replaces different text blocks (several lines of text) delimited by the same tags in multiple files at once.
- Replaces a text Block by another text Block containing one or more varying parts or pattern. This pattern will be replaced with incremental numbers. Needed when inserting the html code for some advertising companies or banner exchanges in web pages.

Testimonials

I did a search of "search and replace" from CNET download site. I downloaded 3 programs which claimed to do what I wanted.

After trying all three programs, Alias software's 'Find and Replace' was BY FAR superior to the other programs.

Your program was very user friendly, simple to understand and I was able to accomplish exactly what I wanted to without any extensive learning curve. I am webmaster of a site that archives a vast quantity of stories and articles and it was necessary for me to change the meta tags on all the archived stories. With your program I was able to simply select the directory that contained the archived stories and choose block replace where I entered in <head> for the start tag and </head> for the end tag and then I entered a replacement block containing the new meta tags and clicked on 'replace blocks'. Within seconds that program went through hundreds of archived html files and replaced all the meta tags as instructed and even gave me a report including one file that it excluded. Upon examination I found that the file that it had excluded had an incorrect closing head tag which I corrected and then resubmitted to Find and Replace and it correctly changed the meta tags.

I was so enthralled with the program that I decided to use it for some

The screenshot shows the homepage of AliasSoftware.com. At the top, there's a navigation bar with links for Home, Download, Order, Online Doc, and Contact Us. The main content area features a headline: "Master The Art of Updating Thousands of Web Pages In Less Than 5 Minutes With This Proven, Easy to Use Software!". Below this, a paragraph describes the software as powerful for Windows 95/98/Me/NT/2000/XP/Vista/Seven, allowing users to change or update multiple web pages/files at once. Another paragraph explains that the tool is used for changing banner codes, links, copyright notices, or correcting spelling mistakes across hundreds of webpages or text documents. A "Features" section lists several bullet points about the software's capabilities, such as working with text files, finding and replacing multiple strings, and handling text blocks. To the right, a "Testimonials" section contains two reviews. The first review is from a user who searched for "search and replace" and found three programs, but chose Alias's due to its superior performance. The second testimonial is from a webmaster who used the software to change meta tags in archived stories, finding it very user-friendly and efficient.
